Hi Brittany,

Nice job with the questions. I have a few thoughts.

As written, Question 13 has so much information that he won't be able to speak to everything (or process all the information). I recommend breaking it down into bite-sized (or byte-sized) subquestions, and asking him if he knows anything about the implementation of each recommendation. In some ways, I see these questions as the most important of the interview because his responses will inform our reply to the recipients during informal resolution discussions. So especially here try to get your answers from him as to each issue before moving on.

Question 14 is a good start, but I recommend explaining in detail what the Good Neighbor program entails (sort of what you're doing for question 13). HDOA put out a good 1-2 page summary. If you don't have the link, let me know and I'll try to find the website. Again, it might be a good idea to walk through each aspect of the Good Neighbor Program.

I also recommend moving the "personal experience" questions (#39-50) to the end of the interview. That way, if you find the interview has gone too long, you could skip those ones. I would prioritize questions about his interactions with the recipients over personal experience because you already have testimony about personal experience from other witnesses.

Best,
--Adam
